Abstract:

Gandhiji emerged as the foremost figure in India's fight for independence, attaining greatness through his tireless endeavors. This research underscores the significance of Gandhiji's leadership attributes, emphasizing the examination of how leaders impact the thoughts, emotions, perspectives, convictions, attitudes, and conduct of their followers. The primary objective of this research paper is to explore valuable leadership insights that businesses can draw from Gandhiji's experiences through "Satyagraha". This research explores the application of nonviolent leadership principles in the context of business, drawing inspiration from Mahatma Gandhi's philosophy of Satyagraha. While traditionally associated with social and political movements, nonviolent principles can offer valuable insights and strategies for effective leadership in the corporate world. The paper examines key elements of Gandhi's Satyagraha, such as truth, nonviolence, and moral authority, and analyzes their potential impact on leadership, conflict resolution, and organizational culture. By integrating these principles into business leadership, organizations may foster a more ethical, sustainable, and harmonious work environment. The research employs a multidisciplinary approach, drawing on leadership theories, ethical frameworks, and case studies to illustrate the practical implementation of nonviolent leadership in various business contexts.
