Online Faculty Development Program (FDP)

E- Learning Content Development

Concept Note:

E- learning content development is the process of creating multimedia online training content to educate, upskill or reskill students, employees etc. In the wake of Covid-19 pandemic which has played a crucial role in making the online learning and teaching process as the new normal, the quality of content across EdTech platforms becomes a major cause of concern which is needed to be addressed. Online learning is a relatively new method of learning that has become integral to education at schools and universities. Presently, there is not sufficient research and evidence on the efficacy of systems for online instruction. A simple curriculum framework for evaluation of secondary students by the Central Board of Senior Secondary Education in India can take up to five years of discussion by multiple experts in the field, detailed research references, and submission of voluminous reports before it is even considered for implementation. Currently, no such process is followed for online deployment of education.

Many countries like USA have a more developed approach to online learning. The Department of Education, USA, has an educational technology (EdTech) policy that is updated periodically on the basis of six parameters: course content, instructional design, student assessment, technology, course evaluation and management, and 21st-century skills.

In India, the pandemic has no doubt augmented the roll-out of online education, but besides inequity and the lack of basic infrastructure and access, it posits a range of other challenges which require immediate attention. Over the last two decades, it has been proved that online learning can be as effective as classroom learning when designed properly. Blended learning too has shown better outcomes than classroom learning in many evaluations. The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 also advocates a blended learning route for the future.

The e-Content development and the associated web-based learning do not seek to replace traditional teaching and learning, but are expected to supplement them. The inclusion of e-content in learning has now become inevitable and hence the content should be designed in a way so as to meet the new challenges, and help India take the lead in this newly emerging field.

Objectives:

The FDP aims at generating awareness among the participants and encourages learning through such platform. This program aims to train the participant in understanding the various categorical challenges of developing and implementing E contents. The FDP also involves hands-on on content development to make learning more interactive. Other objectives are

- explain the basic principles and best practices for developing interactive eContent.
- identify different types of interactive resources
- apply instructional design models to design interactive resources
- Create interactive activities in various formats using authoring software
- implement features such as alternative text, captions, and keyboard navigation
- consider cultural diversity and inclusivity when designing interactive eContent

Objectives of the Event:

This FDP will focus on equipping the teaching fraternity with strategies and tools to bridge the gap between quality research and teaching with techniques that can disseminate knowledge to young learners effectively. This FDP will teach faculty members and students how to raise critical thinking questions, search for abstract answers, and identify what is important for the students. The goal of the FDP is to familiarize participants with challenges and changes in higher education in India as brought out in NEP 2020, with particular reference to the teaching and learning methodology, institutional governance research issues promotion, and, most importantly, the manner in which these impact the development of faculty members. The aim is to teach how to create a learning environment that supports the students to be academically successful. The FDP will also discuss how to motivate the students to engage in learning processes so that they can view information, activities, and assignments as relevant; feel emotionally connected to course content and experience positive interactions with their professors.

TARGET AUDIENCE

- Faculty members from Colleges, Universities, and Institutes for Technical and Professional Education
- Research scholars, Doctoral students seeking a career in academia
- Managers, Administrators from Universities, Deemed-to-be-Universities, Technical Institutions, Engineering Colleges, Colleges, Standalone Institutes, Business Schools, and EdTech companies

COVERAGE AREAS

- Technology & Pedagogy
- Effective Class Engagement with Web 2.0 Tools
- Assessment and Evaluation of Students' Learning
- MOODLE Learning Management System
- New Tools and Techniques of the Teaching & Learning Process
- Continuous Professional Development
- Current Trends in Higher Education.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES OF THE EVENT

This FDP would suggest that deep learning depends on intellectual stimulation to influence effective teaching. Intellectual stimulation results in deep learning that leads students to learn and teachers to teach effectively. Deep learning can also develop students' critical thinking skills. This FDP will also assess the impact of the Professor's behaviour and evaluate the success of the intervention in students' achievements.

ABOUT THE INSTITUTE

Swami Keshvanand Institute of Technology, Management & Gramothan (SKIT), established in 2000 by the Technocrats and Managers Society for Advanced Learning and Gramothan, is inspired by the learnings of Swami Keshvanand. Today, the Institute has established itself as one of the centres of academic excellence in Northern India.

The Institute is affiliated with Rajasthan Technical University, Kota and offers Postgraduate and Graduate courses in Engineering and Management. Our sister Institution, Swami Keshvanand Institute of Pharmacy (SKIP), is affiliated with the Rajasthan University of Health Sciences and offers Graduate courses in Pharmacy. Located in the Pink City Jaipur, which is a blend of traditional history and modern outlook, SKIT is putting in efforts to make Industry-ready engineers and managers through an effective Industry-Institute interface.

Supplementing the University curriculum, SKIT also pursues activities for Research and Development in various fields. The green landscaping, aesthetic elegance of arches and the persistent pursuit of knowledge by the young aspirants make the environment serene, pleasant and dynamic.

Day-wise Report of the FDP

Day 1

21 January, 2024

Time: 10.30 a.m. – 11:00 a.m (Inaugural Ceremony)

11:00- 12.00 pm. (Session 1)

Resource Person: Dr. Santosh Mahapatra (Associate Professor BITS Pilani Hyderabad campus)

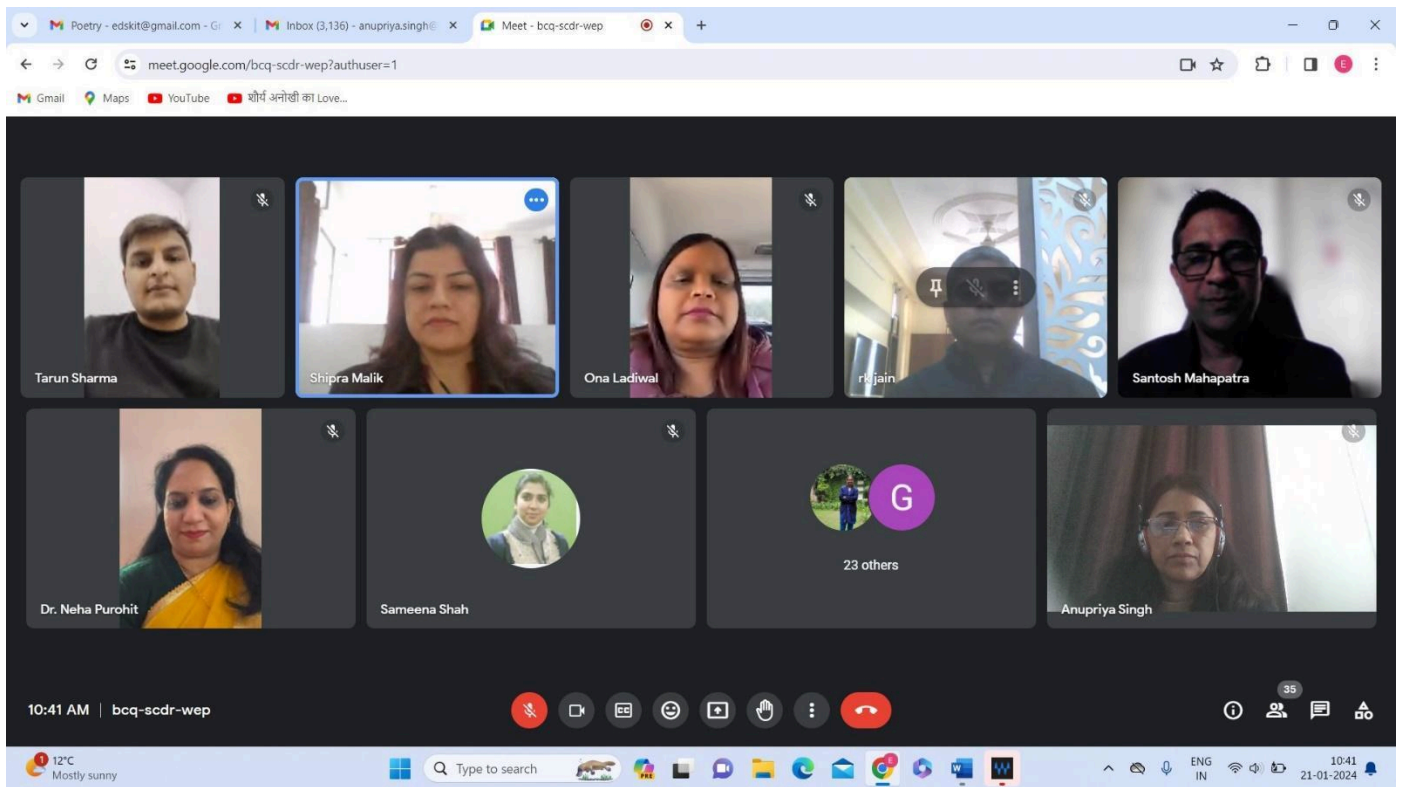

Topic: “Generative Artificial Intelligence for Pedagogic Content Development and Feedback

The poster is for an International Faculty Development Programme (IFDP) on E-Learning Content Development. It is organized by the Department of English in collaboration with the Department of Management Studies at Swami Keshvanand Institute of Technology, Management & Gramothan, Jaipur. The event is scheduled for 21-25 January 2024. The poster highlights Day 1 on 21/01/2024, with an Inaugural Ceremony starting at 10:30 a.m. and a Keynote Session starting at 11:00 a.m. The keynote speaker is Dr. Santosh Mahapatra, Associate Professor at BITS Hyderabad, who will be presenting on 'Generative Artificial Intelligence for Pedagogic Content Development and Feedback'. The poster features the SKIT logo and a portrait of Dr. Mahapatra.

On Day 1 of FDP, the Inaugural Ceremony began from 10:30 a.m. onwards. The session was hosted by Dr Shipra Malik and the welcome note was delivered by the H.O.D of English Department, Dr Neha Purohit. In the session Dr Santosh Mahapatra, Associate Professor, BITS Hyderabad, introduced the new and revolutionary methodology which can be used for creating the content and taking feedback of the learners. AI tools like natural language processing, machine learning, and deep learning can help create high-quality content quickly and efficiently. AI is particularly useful in content creation because it can analyze large data sets to identify patterns, insights, and gaps in content to optimize content strategy. He gave a hands on experience to the attendees so that they can readily optimize the uses of AI for creating new and interesting content. The session was interesting as it enriched the audience with the new concepts and areas in the field of teaching and learning methodology. The vote of thanks was given by Dr Shipra Malik and the session was co coordinated by Dr Geetika Patni and Dr Anupriya Singh.

The Faculty Development Program (FDP) on Interactive E Learning Content Development was conducted from Jan 21 to 25 Jan 2024 by the Department of English SKIT, with the aim of generating awareness and facilitating learning among the participants in the field of eContent development and implementation. As per the schedule, the programme started at 10.30 am in the presence of Principal Prof R.K Pacchar, Dean Academics Prof. R.K Jain and HOD's from various Departments. During the session on Day 1, Dr. Santosh Mahapatra, Associate Professor from BITS Hyderabad, introduced an innovative methodology for content creation and learner feedback. This groundbreaking approach offers a fresh perspective on content development and incorporates efficient strategies for gathering feedback from learners. On the second day of the Faculty Development Program, Dr. Pankaj Sharma, Professor from Chaudhary Devi Lal University, Sirsa, assumed the role of chairperson. He delved into strategies for optimizing the utilization of AI tools such as Bard and Chat GPT through precise and effective prompts. Dr. Sharma conducted an engaging hands-on session, encouraging active involvement from all attendees, aimed at maximizing time-saving benefits through practical application. During the third day of the week-long Faculty Development Programme, Dr. Preeti Choudhary, Assistant Professor from the University of Rajasthan, presented a session on "Theoretical Aspects of the Four Quadrant Approach as outlined by the Ministry of Education." Dr. Choudhary elaborated on the components and advantages of this approach. The Four-Quadrant Model of Facilitated Learning serves as a framework that aligns teaching-learning methodologies with modern theoretical principles from fields such as occupational therapy, psychology, and pedagogy.

On Day 4 of the Faculty Development Program, Professor N.D.R Chandra delivered an insightful session focusing on the significance of English language in the digital era and modern linguistic paradigms. Participants found the discussion on English literature, critique, and lexical utilization to be pertinent and stimulating. The session adeptly underscored the dynamic evolution of the English language within the contemporary digital environment. During the valedictory day of the Faculty Development Program, Dr. Tikaram Poudel conducted a session on the importance of intellectual integrity in research, which garnered praise from participants. His valuable insights into ensuring precision in research proposals, reports, and peer review procedures were well-received. Attendees commended his focus on promoting fairness and collegiality in scientific exchanges, offering practical advice for upholding ethical standards in academic endeavors. This week long program emphasized hands-on activities and training to equip participants with the necessary skills and knowledge to create interactive and engaging eContent. Below is a comprehensive feedback report summarizing the effectiveness of the FDP.

Program Objectives: The objectives outlined for the FDP were well-defined and aligned with the theme of the program. Participants expressed satisfaction with the coverage of basic principles, best practices, instructional design models, and practical exercises aimed at enhancing their understanding and skills in developing interactive eContent. The objectives provided a clear roadmap for the program and helped participants stay focused throughout the sessions.

Content and Delivery: The content covered during the FDP was diverse and relevant to the subject matter. Participants appreciated the variety of topics, including E-Content types, OER introduction and searching, eContent scripting, multimedia components, and online assessment tools, among others. The delivery of content was effective, with a good balance of theoretical concepts and practical demonstrations. The inclusion of hands-on activities, such as using authoring software and creating interactive resources, greatly enhanced the learning experience and enabled participants to apply their knowledge in real-time.

Themes and Sessions: The themes and sessions were well-organized and provided a comprehensive overview of various aspects of eContent development. Participants found the sessions on tools to enhance teaching pedagogy, applications for creating interactive learning content, and open educational resources particularly insightful. The incorporation of themes like audio podcasts and the Four Quadrant Approach prescribed by the Ministry of Education added depth to the program and catered to diverse learning needs.

Facilitators and Interaction: The facilitators demonstrated expertise in their respective areas and effectively engaged participants throughout the program. Participants appreciated the interactive nature of the sessions, which encouraged active participation, discussion, and knowledge sharing. The facilitators fostered a collaborative learning environment where participants felt comfortable asking questions and seeking clarification, contributing to a rich learning experience.

Feedback and Suggestions: Overall, participants provided positive feedback on the FDP, highlighting its relevance, interactivity, and practical orientation. However, some participants suggested incorporating more case studies or real-life examples to further illustrate concepts and enhance understanding. Additionally, a few participants expressed interest in advanced topics or follow-up sessions to delve deeper into specific areas of eContent development.

Conclusion: In conclusion, the Faculty Development Program on Interactive eContent Development was well-received by participants, who found it informative, engaging, and beneficial to their professional development. The program successfully achieved its objectives of raising awareness and enhancing skills in eContent development, thanks to well-structured content, effective delivery, and knowledgeable facilitators. Moving forward, incorporating participant feedback and suggestions can further enrich future iterations of the program and ensure its continued success.
