REPORT

Day 1: *Session on Code of Conduct***

Dr. Krishna Sharma, a distinguished professor in the Department of English at SKIT, is renowned for her unwavering commitment to fostering a culture of excellence and ethical conduct among both faculty and students. In crafting her unique Code of Conduct, Dr. Sharma draws inspiration from her extensive experience in academia and a profound belief in the transformative power of education. At the heart of her code lies the principle of respect for oneself, fellow colleagues, students, and the institution at large. Dr. Sharma's Code of Conduct serves as a guiding beacon for all members of the academic community. In her fictionalized code, Dr. Sharma's code, underscores the importance of honesty and ethical behaviour. She advocates for academic honesty in all endeavours, emphasizing that the pursuit of knowledge should be grounded in a commitment to truth and authenticity. Krishna Sharma's fictionalized Code of Conduct is a testament to her visionary approach to academia. Grounded in principles of respect, integrity, mentorship, and innovation, her code serves as a blueprint for a dynamic and ethically driven academic environment at SKIT.

Day 2: *Session on Leadership & Accountability***

Dr. Archana Saxena, a luminary in the Department of Chemistry at SKIT, is celebrated not only for her academic prowess but also for her distinctive philosophy on leadership and accountability. In crafting her visionary approach, Dr. In her fictionalized perspective, she defines leadership as a collaborative endeavour, where every individual, regardless of position, is a potential catalyst for positive change. Dr. Saxena believes in the power of collective leadership, where diverse voices and ideas converge to propel the academic community forward. Central to her philosophy is the principle of accountability. Dr. Saxena sees accountability not as a rigid obligation but as a shared commitment. In her fictionalized brief, she fosters a culture where each member of the academic community is accountable not only for their individual contributions but also for the collective success of the department. Her fictionalized approach to leadership emphasizes the importance of nurturing the next generation of scholars, ensuring a sustainable and vibrant academic legacy. Saxena envisions a leadership style rooted in transparency and open communication. Archana Saxena's fictionalized brief on leadership and accountability reflects a transformative vision for academic excellence. Grounded in collaboration, mentorship, transparency, and a commitment to collective success, her leadership philosophy sets a compelling standard for the Department of Chemistry at SKIT, inspiring a community that thrives on accountability and shared leadership.

Day 3: *Session on Role of Human Values at workplace***

Dr. Amit Jhalani, an insightful Assistant Professor in the Department of Mechanical Engineering at SKIT, is renowned for his visionary perspective on integrating human values into the professional sphere. Jhalani champions the transformative power of human values in shaping a thriving and harmonious workplace culture. At the core of his vision is rooted in the belief that fostering a culture of human values elevates the workplace from a mere organization to a community where individuals flourish. In Dr. Jhalani's fictionalized perspective, the first pillar of a values-driven workplace is integrity. By fostering a culture of trust, Dr. Jhalani's discourse emphasizes the role of mentorship as a vehicle for transmitting human values. In his vision, seasoned professionals take on the responsibility of guiding and nurturing the talents of their junior counterparts, creating a mentorship ecosystem that fosters growth and camaraderie. Jhalani champions the notion that a values-driven workplace is one that values innovation and diversity. In conclusion, Dr. Amit Jhalani's fictionalized perspective on the role of human values at the workplace paints a vivid picture of a professional environment that transcends the ordinary. Through the infusion of integrity, empathy, mentorship, and innovation, he envisions a workplace that not only excels in productivity but also in fostering the holistic development of individuals within the professional community at SKIT.
