and adopt the apt teaching approach and methodology to impart language learning habits among the learners. As English educators, our goal is to equip students with the knowledge of global literacy and critical awareness of how new directions in the teaching of English defines and positions their languages symbols identities communities and futures. Consequently English educators and teachers of English need to envision the subject of English within the context of global management mediation and multimodal communications. To accomplish these goals, a teacher of English should sync with multiple topics to identify the cultural frames of reference in order to evaluate the values and beliefs constructed to the messages. Participation in the proposed conference will promote interaction among English teaching expert professionals teachers and scholars to enable them to discuss the major challenges and issues related to English teaching in the present context eventually catering to a virtual paradigm for basic building blocks of language learning to face the challenges in the present scenario.

INTRODUCTION

Reviving Jaipur: Founded in AD 1727 by Sawai Jaisingh II, Jaipur, the capital of Rajasthan is popularly known as the Pink City with broad avenues and spacious gardens. Jaipur is steeped in history and culture. Here the past comes alive in magnificent forts and palaces, blushed pink, where once lived the maharajas. The bustling bazaars of Jaipur, famous for Rajasthan jewelry, fabric and shoes, possess a timeless quality and are surely a treasure-trove for the shoppers. This fascinating city with its romantic charm takes you to an epoch of royalty and tradition. Spread around it, in rows, are public buildings, the residences of noblemen, the living and trading quarters of merchants and artisans. All of Jaipur is an architectural gem, and no scheduled sight seeing can even hope to do justice to this rare city.

About SKIT:

Swami Keshvanand Institute of Technology, Management & Gramothan (SKIT) inspired from the learnings of Swami Keshvanand, was established in the year 2000 by Technocrats and Managers Society for Advanced Learning. Today the institute is recognized as one of the centers of academic excellence in Northern India. The Institute is affiliated to Rajasthan Technical University, Kota for offering Postgraduate and Graduate Courses in Engineering and Management. Our sister institution Swami Keshvanand Institute of Pharmacy (SKIP) is affiliated to Rajasthan University of Health Sciences for offering Graduate Course in Pharmacy.

The Department of English, SKIT, Jaipur proposes to organize a three - day International Web Conference on New Directions in English Language Teaching: Issues, Practices, Challenges on 03-05 May, 2021. The conference will comprise plenary sessions, panel discussions and presentations by participants. Proposals for presentation at the conference are welcome from faculty members and research scholars engaged in research on various aspects of language, linguistics, literature, communication, and translation. This endeavour intends to offer a platform for the academic community, researchers, scholars, trainers and teachers to discuss and share the results of their research, projects, experience, and new ideas about all aspects of studies in language, literature, and related areas.

OBJECTIVES

Language oriented learning activity has some of the challenging roles to be played by the language teacher in the English language learning classroom. However, the modern learner of language has many devices at his / her disposal to enhance the learning habits by adopting any of the above cited methods and even by adopting technology / multimedia in the language laboratories etc. Hence, it is a never- ending process in a continuous endeavour to the language teacher to explore the latest and the most current methods and approaches in language teaching and language learning for effective delivery for enhancement of the learning process. The various objectives pertaining to the conference theme are as follows:

1. Achieve functional proficiency in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.
2. Recognize culture-specific perspectives and values embedded in language behavior.
3. Decode, analyze, and interpret authentic texts of different genres.
4. Produce organized coherent discourse in oral and written modes.
5. Recognize the nature of cultural identity, cross-cultural difference comparison, contrast home and cultures.
6. Acquire flexibility and openness of mind in negotiating cultural differences.
7. Develop insight into the nature of language itself, the process of language, and culture acquisition.

CONCEPT NOTE

Gone are the days, wherein, the language teachers used to handle a chalk and talk programme, writing all that was necessary to be infused into the minds of the language learners, on black board and then washing their hands off, leaving all to the end of the learners to be acclimatized with the advanced grammatical systems, norms, rules etc. The theory was dumped into the brains of the learners, reproduced by them in times of necessity. However, the system of learning has undergone a tremendous change during the 21st century, wherein, the teacher-centered approach has turned into learner-centered approach. Language items were stopped figuring on black boards and instead, they started to appear in the form of sound systems and the practice sessions. New approaches were found interesting and thus the shift in paradigm has benefited the language learner a lot and left more challenges to the language teacher, who has to meet the challenges to adopt different teaching methodologies and language teaching approaches to the heterogeneous groups of learners. To make the language learner quite suitable to meet the global needs in developing language competencies, the language teacher of the modern times has to pick up an appropriate model

DAY-WISE REPORT OF THE CONFERENCE

During the last decade in India, major employers of engineering graduates have observed in their recruitment drives that while thousands of students graduated with an engineering degree, only about 20% or less, were really “employable” directly. An analysis revealed that the root cause of this lack of “quality graduates” was the paucity of “trained” teachers, who are expected to ensure “quality” education. Consequently, major for-profit employers have initiated programs in faculty development. For example, WIPRO Technologies has initiated well-designed programs, e.g., Mission10X, for training engineering college teachers with respect to the pedagogical aspects of the teaching-learning process. Infosys Ltd has actively participated in the Indo-US Collaboration for Engineering Education (IUCEE) program. Both Mission10X and IUCEE focus on faculty development across the engineering programs in India. However, training engineering college teachers across the large number of engineering programs in India is a huge task that requires multiple efforts across diverse engineering disciplines. The quality of higher education definitely depends a lot on the quality of its teachers and the present international conference, we all may agree, truly helped us in unravelling the fundamental strategies and techniques to be incorporated by teachers across the academic and professional spectrum.

INAUGURAL CEREMONY

The Department of English, SKIT, hosted the inaugural ceremony of the three-day international conference on New Directions in English Language Teaching: Issues, Practices, Challenges on 3 May 2021. The Chief Guest and the first keynote speaker was Dr. Sabrina Sembiante, Associate Professor, Florida Atlantic University, USA. The Guest of Honour and the second Keynote speaker was Prof. V Ganeshan, Former VC, EFLU, currently living in the USA. Dr. Sabrina Sembiante in her address on ‘English in Context: Not a Single Language but a Set of Registers for Different Contexts and Purposes’ delineated the value of language from three perspectives: language for experience, language as an interpersonal and social connect and language for constructing cohesive messages. Prof. Ganeshan in his talk on ‘Teaching and Learning English in India: Some Critical Remarks’ wittily brought to the fore some interesting facets of Indian English. He also sketched the boundaries for the Indian speakers of Hinglish and critically transfused the need of the adaptability of standard language at the global crossroads. The Convenor of the conference, Dr. Nidhi Sharma outlined the level of participation from presenters across the nation. She invited the audience to be a part of the upcoming plenary sessions by renowned experts like Prof. Salivendra Jayaraju from Department of Phonetics and Spoken English, EFLU, Hyderabad, Prof. Mini Nanda, Former Head, Department of English, University of Rajasthan, Dr. Racayita Shah, Community Engagement Director, New Jersey, USA and Dr. Dominic Savio, Associate Professor, EFLU, Hyderabad. The Director of the institute, Mr. Jaipal Meel welcomed the guests and scholars. Prof. Ramesh Pachar, Principal, SKIT introduced SKIT to the audience by highlighting the culture of the institute. The programme was moderated by Dr. Geetika Patni, the organizing Secretary of the conference. The event ended with a vote of thanks by the Co-convenor of the conference, Dr. Shikha Agarwal.

The first plenary session on the second day commenced with the lecture of Prof. Salivendra Jayaraju, professor from the department of Spoken English and Phonetics, Hyderabad who threw light on the classroom strategies and teaching pedagogies for student learning in higher education. In his opinion, linguistics, mutual intelligibility is a relationship between languages or dialects in which speakers of different but related varieties can readily understand each other without prior familiarity or special effort. He further explained how it is sometimes used as an important criterion for distinguishing languages from dialects, although sociolinguistic factors are often also used. He concluded by saying that intelligibility between languages can be asymmetric, with speakers of one understanding more of the other than speakers of the other understanding the first. When it is relatively symmetric, it is characterized as "mutual". It exists in differing degrees among many related or geographically proximate languages of the world, often in the context of a dialect continuum. Linguistic distance is the name for the concept of calculating a measurement for how different languages are from one another. The higher the linguistic distance, the lower the mutual intelligibility.

The second plenary had Prof. Mini Nanda, former head, department of English, University of Rajasthan highlight on the various teaching tools that the teachers have to be equipped with for effective bridging in the process of communication skills. She unravelled her lecture by saying that the teachers in education sector were still using teaching methodologies they had learnt in their childhood. She said students in classes seemed afraid of speaking up – which is actually their right. In order to enhance students' learning levels, she said teachers were required to develop student -friendly and learning-friendly environment in classrooms and motivate children to speak up. In colleges, Prof. Nanda said students were found unable to speak full sentences and even their full names in the first go owing to "fear and hesitation". She said the training participants also identified students' shortcomings in reading, writing and listening. Prof Nanda further added that most teachers training programmes failed because they were hardly supported by practical activity and added that theoretical learning was rarely implemented.

The technical sessions were scheduled from 12.30 pm where the first session was chaired by Dr. Narendra Kumar, Associate Professor, LNMIIT, Jaipur and the second session was chaired by Dr. Irum Alvi, Assistant Professor, RTU, Kota.

The first plenary on the third day began with the lecture on Phonetics by Dr. Dominic Savio, Associate Professor, Dept of Phonetics & spoken English. He carefully dealt with the intricacies related to the learning and teaching of vowel and consonant sounds in English. He also taught the art of mastering English pronunciation by suggesting few books and apps.

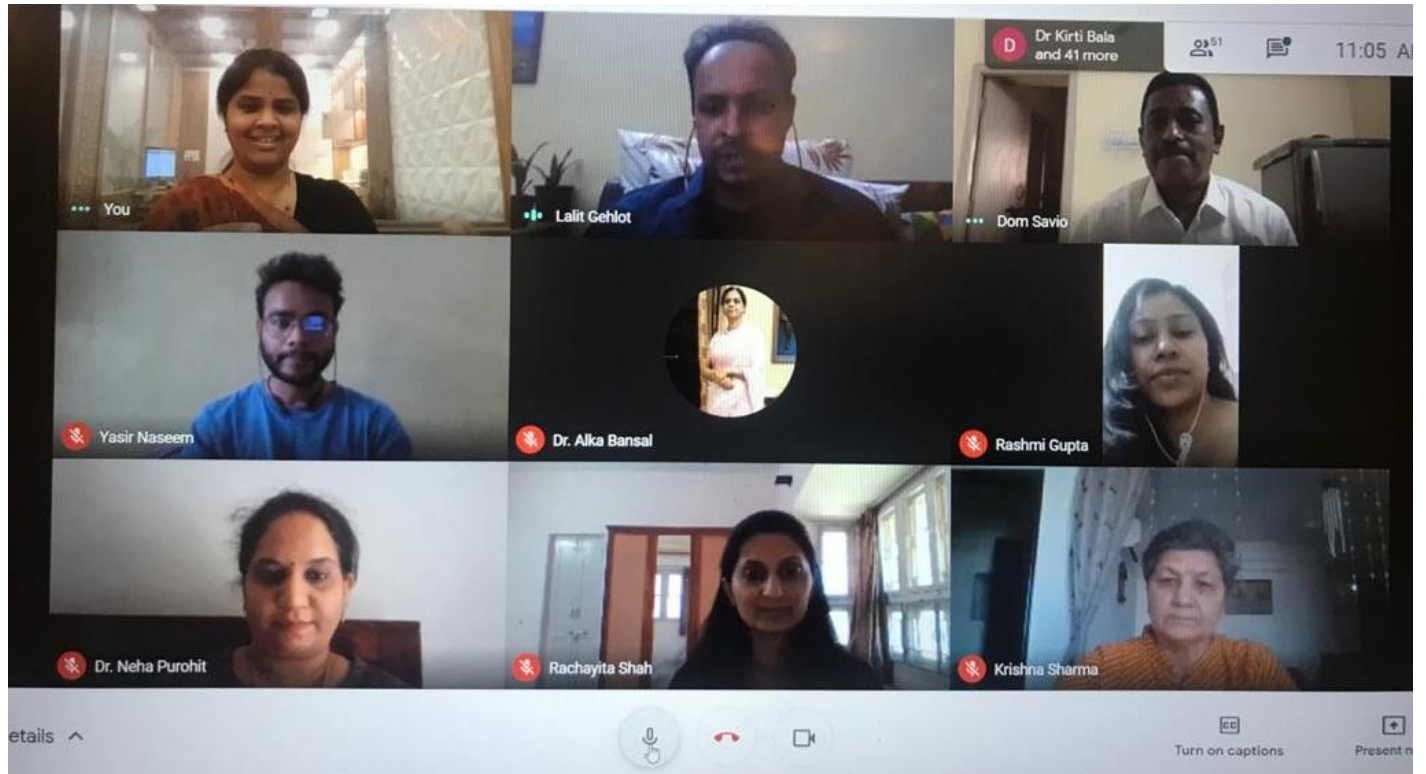

The second plenary on the third day had Dr.Rachayita Shah unleashing the critical review of the latest policies adopted by the government and its implementation in higher learning. She also unraveled latest online strategies to be incorporated by the teachers for effective production like flip & blended learning and she also highlighted on the recurrent usage of animation in language and literature teaching for effective reception by the students. She also stressed on the pressing need to conduct such kind of professional conferences that produce promising outcomes in the learning and teaching practices that should extend beyond the particular discipline to include social skills necessary for collaboration, professional growth as well as management, and leadership abilities.
